7,249

7,249 impressions, 0 clicks, one question

For anyone who runs SEO or content for a site or for agency clients.

WHAT THEY FOUND

389

One question, written 389 different ways

At the bottom of Search Console queries. The wordings read like searches an AI assistant writes.

STEPS 1 TO 3

Sort by clicks, scroll to the bottom

Open Performance, go to Queries. Sort by clicks, scroll down, read the zero-click long tail.

STEP 4

Look for one question in many wordings

The slow step. The sort groups zero-click rows, not meaning, so you read them yourself.

WHY IT MATTERS

Impressions up, clicks flat? Check this tail

A rising impressions line can include searches that were never going to send a visit.

THE CAVEAT

A pattern to watch, not proof

Search Console doesn't label who or what typed a query.

IN THE AUDIT

Report it as two separate lines

Log the cluster apart from queries real readers click. Don't strip it from the totals.

DO THIS NOW

Check your biggest site's zero-click tail

Sort by clicks, read the bottom, and log any one-question cluster as its own line.
